Black Cowboy comic strip instructions

You will create a comic about a Black Cowboy to show your knowledge of these interesting historical figures. You may use the Mini Page and Nat Love's biography for reference. Your comic should be historically accurate, meaning you should get your ideas from our reading, and then use your imagination as you create your character. Your drawings don't have to be amazing; they just need to show you know your stuff.

Comic requirements:

- A black cowboy: can be Nat Love, Bill Pickett, one of the unnamed cowboys shown in the photograph in the Mini Page, or one from your imagination
- Details about why your character chose to become a cowboy
- Drawings must show your character is a black cowboy: pay attention to what colors you use, the clothing he wears, the surroundings and background, etc.
- A clear storyline and action, with a beginning, middle, and end
- All captions and dialogue should be well written, have no grammatical errors, and be easy to read
